SUZETTE D.HARRISON

BIO

Award-winning author Suzette D. Harrison grew up in a home where reading was required, not requested. Turning her love of books into a rising literary career, Suzette was first published when her poetry was included in a creative journal in junior high school.

While she loves happy endings, Harrison's work is dedicated to characters who are flawed yet resilient and open to redemption. She loves crafting storylines with intricate layers and depth, often leaving readers with unexpected plot twists.

Her writing has been described as "lyrical" and "riveting." Harrison pays homage to Alex Haley, Gloria Naylor, Alice Walker, Langston Hughes, and Toni Morrison as literary legends who inspired her creativity. However, Suzette emphatically states that it was Dr. Maya Angelou's I Know Why the Caged Bird Sings that unleashed her writing. Literally.

Suzette is a wife and mother, as well as an avid reader and novice crafter who loves creating shiny, glittery things including bookmarks, keychains, and tees. This bestselling author holds a culinary degree in Pastry & Baking and is busy cooking up her next novel...in between batches of cookies.
